Expression of Fc-gamma receptor IIIA in human pancreatic endocrine neoplasms. Pancreatic endocrine tumors (PET) are a class of neoplasms with various biological characteristics. Although certain biological phenotypes are associated with the risk of recurrence after surgical resection, a specific biological marker has not yet been identified. In the present study, we analysed the expression of the CD16A (FcgammaRIIIA) glycoprotein, which has a high affinity for IgG(3) antibody, in pancreatic endocrine neoplasms (PET). FcgammaRIIIA expression was evaluated by immunohistochemical analysis of specimens from 30 patients with PET and 10 normal pancreatic tissue specimens as controls. FcgammaRIIIA was not detected in normal pancreatic tissues, but was expressed in 18 of the 30 PET specimens. The expression rate was highest (60%) in PET associated with chronic pancreatitis (AP-PET), and was expressed in 10 of 14 cases with mitotic index We use cookies to improve our service and to tailor our content and advertising to you.
